

How About Some Fun Stuff?

Conversation #1: The “Bucket List”

The “Bucket List”! Sounds familiar from back in Chapter 1 right? Gang we are not going to let this one go because creating a “Shared Vision” for your relationship moving forward is such a powerful driver in creating a great life together!

The first thing it does is create a unifying focus on things we want to accomplish, see or do in our lives. Whether it is on yours, mine or our Bucket List we can both get behind what it takes to make the items on the list a reality! This is also a great way to “investigate” what your potential future mate will value in your life together.

The second thing a Bucket List does is give us something, better yet many things, to look forward to! One of the best things about the list is all of the planning and anticipation that comes with the days, weeks, months and even years that lead up to the experience itself!

And lastly, the Bucket List items give us the opportunity to join together in support of each other and the accomplishment of the items on our individual Bucket List. I have never ridden a MS150 bicycle event (150+ miles over a two day period) to raise money for Multiple Sclerosis but Christie has done 10 of them and I had the privilege of supporting her 100% every time! Every time she crossed the finish line I felt as if I had crossed it with her!

If you did the exercise back in Chapter 1 you can skip this one, have the conversation again or do another list! That is up to you ...

- What are 10 things you want to do, see or experience before you “kick the bucket”?
- What are 10 things your partner wants to do, see or experience before they “kick the bucket”?
- What are 10 things your two want to do, see or experience before either one of you “kicks the bucket”?
